

Our History

Welcome to Robinson's Wharf, a family owned establishment. In the early 1970's, Robinson's was a seafood processing plant. A lunch counter was added so the freshly processed catch could be enjoyed by the public. The Wharf was eventually purchased and expanded by Marge and Elliot Winslow, owners of Winslow Tugboat Company, and, ever since, it's been a popular island destination for locals and tourists alike. A true working waterfront, Robinson's supplies our lobstermen with the gear, bait, and fuel they need and, at the end of the day, they bring their delicious fresh catch back to us. In 2016, the tradition was passed on to the Slater Family, who dined here for many summers and liked it so much they bought the place. So grab your favorite beverage and a bite to eat and enjoy the view!
